

Hi everyone

I am Uzma Khizer from Lahore Pakistan, I am working as assistant professor and educational administrator in Hazrat Ayesha Siddiqi Degree College Lahore.

I have already attended many courses on educational technologies like CALL / sponsored by Higher Education Commission Pakistan and Intel teach to future program offered by Education ministry of Pakistan

But TTLO is very dynamic in nature. In unit 1, I learnt how to collaborate with group members and how to participate and interact meaningfully on discussion board with other course members. In Unit 2 , we learn how to design and develop activities for learning language online.

The instructor presence is always there to guide us through email messages and timely feedback. By doing all learning activities mentioned in Unit 1, I discovered one thing that in F2 F class , we as teacher mostly remain involve with completing text and other material related to text and give less time to creating meaningful activities. Secondly we never grade the activities and take them for granted. What my observation about TTLO says that I learnt to create knowledge through these activities and how to be present all time with my students for their learning through well timed feedback. Such a nice effort to develop a supportive learning environment is great achievement which I will say I am unable to do so in F2F classroom. i decide to apply all these techniques in my future online course as well as in my F2F class too.

The most interesting part of the course is to create an eportfolio where you can read my course assignments, you can have glimpses of gallery of eteacher plus conference conducted by Evolution in 2018 where I presented my paper, and you can also check the detail of my courses and certificates on education technology.
